Job Description

The Department of Educational Administration (EDA) in the School of Education and Health Science (SEHS) at the University of Dayton is pleased to announce an Assistant Professor (tenure-track) faculty position to begin on August 16, 2018. EDA has partnered with 2U, a nationally prominent online education provider, to power and support our online programs. This partnership provides the EDA with a greatly enhanced online infrastructure to create a seamless student experience and significantly extend the scope and reach of our graduate programs. EDA offerings include master's and doctoral programs in educational leadership and licensing programs for principals, superintendents, and curriculum directors. Position responsibilities include, but not are necessarily limited to, teaching three graduate-level courses per academic year, developing and implementing a research agenda, curriculum development, advising graduate students, assessment of learning outcomes, and service to the department, university, community and profession. This is a nine-month position; opportunities for summer teaching are typically available. The successful candidate is expected to contribute to the development and success of EDA through teaching (face-to-face, hybrid, and online), research, and service. An essential responsibility of this position will be to assist in developing an M.S.E. program in conjunction with our 2U partner. This position also provides the opportunity to engage in school and community partnerships, which may require off-site travel.

The University of Dayton is committed to the recruitment, hiring and promotion of outstanding, diverse faculty and staff who value its mission and share its commitment to academic excellence in teaching, research and artistic creativity, the development of the whole person, and leadership and service in the local and global community. In support of this commitment, the University is pleased to provide support for spouses of prospective and newly hired faculty. The dual career program serves as a resource and support system and is not intended to take the place of one's own job search efforts. While we cannot guarantee placement, we serve as an effective support system for your spouse. Information can be found at http://www.udayton.edu/hr/employee_resources/dual_career_resources.php

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS

- Earned Ph.D. or Ed.D. in Educational Administration, P-12 Administration, Instructional Leadership, Organizational Leadership, or a related field;
- Evidence of successful university teaching experience either in person or online as instructor of record at the graduate level in the U.S.;
- Evidence of ability to teach a variety of courses in educational administration at the master's and doctoral levels including advanced expertise in one of the following areas: quantitative research methods, diversity, ethics, curriculum development, program evaluation, assessment, school finance, organizational leadership, or other related area;
- Articulation of a research agenda in one of the following fields: educational change, organizational leadership, school reform, or other field related to P-12 educational leadership;
- Articulated ability and willingness to teach doctoral courses and serve and/or chair dissertation committees; and
- Effective written communication skills.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS

- Successful experience developing and delivering online, distance, and hybrid courses through a variety of media;
- Successful experience working with diverse student populations at the graduate level;
- Successful experience working collaboratively with various constituents in higher education and P-12 communities both internal and external to the University;
- Effective interpersonal communication skills;
- Three or more years of administrative experience in P-12 education;
- Openness to promoting and enhancing the Catholic Marianist environment; and
- Successful experience with the 2U platform of online education.
