Georgia Southern University was founded in 1906 as a school for teaching modern agricultural production techniques and homemaking skills to rural school children. Its Savannah campus was established in 1935 as Armstrong Junior College for local youth who could not afford to attend college away from home. The Liberty Center in Hinesville was established in 1998 to serve the military and their families at nearby Fort Stewart, the largest military base east of the Mississippi. All three locations came together in 2018 when Armstrong State University and Georgia Southern University consolidated. The "new" Georgia Southern University preserves a passion for serving its neighbors while preparing students for lifelong service as scholars, leaders, and responsible stewards of their communities.

Believing that diversity contributes to excellence in the work place and to the quality of the University's academic environment, the College of Education is committed to recruiting and retaining a diverse faculty to support, promote and serve a diverse student body

(https://apptrkr.com/get_redirect.php?id=1737799&targetURL=https://tinyurl.com/udwaujg]<https://tinyurl.com/udwaujg>) Candidates from historically underrepresented groups, whose work furthers the College of Education's diversity and inclusion efforts, and who bring to campus varied life experiences, perspectives and backgrounds are especially encouraged to apply.

Within this setting, the Department of Leadership, Technology, and Human Development (https://apptrkr.com/get_redirect.php?id=1737799&targetURL=http://coe.georgiasouthern.edu/lthd]<http://coe.georgiasouthern.edu/lthd>) one of four departments within the College of Education, includes five distinct programs – School Psychology, Counselor Education, Adult Education, Educational Leadership, and Instructional Technology. The School Psychology program at Georgia Southern University is nationally recognized and approved by the National Association of School Psychologists (NASP). The program offers an Ed. S. degree, and its goal is to produce highly qualified school psychologists.

Position Description Reporting to the department chair, the Assistant Professor of School Psychology position requires teaching, service, and scholarship responsibilities, as well as a terminal degree. The position involves collaborating with faculty across the College of Education, advising graduate students, and performing service to the department, college, University, and the professional community. Additional responsibilities include the maintenance of an active research agenda involving regular publications and professional presentations in appropriate venues. The position is a 10-month, tenure-track appointment, and the salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Required Qualifications:

* Earned doctorate in School Psychology, or a closely related field, by August 1, 2020
