Job Description

Department Summary

The Department of Teacher Education and Administration (TE&A) in the College of Education at the University of North Texas (UNT) invites applications for a one-year, non-tenure track Lecturer position, beginning Fall 2022 semester. The position is one that will teach bilingual education; literacy education; social studies, math, and/or science education. The successful candidate will join Curriculum & Instruction faculty in a dynamic undergraduate program leading to EC-6, and secondary teacher certification and in the department's Masters programs, working closely with department colleagues to reshape and reimagine education from critical perspectives. This includes (but is not limited to) preparing and cultivating equity-oriented educators who are thinking about issues of racial equity, linguistic justice, ecological sustainability, and disability rights. Of particular interest to the College of Education are candidates who are committed to improving people's lives through powerful learning, social-emotional wellness, physical health, civic engagement, and equity-centered education.

The University of North Texas is a Tier One Research University in the Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex – the fourth-largest metropolitan area in the United States. This dynamic region is seeing explosive growth, demographically and economically, with several of the fastest-growing municipalities in the nation, and is host to countless excellent restaurants, parks and outdoor opportunities, cultural institutions of all types, and globally diverse populations. UNT is located only 26 miles north of DFW International Airport. At over 43,000 students, UNT is one of the nation's largest universities and is ranked in the top 8% of USA universities based on racial, geographic, gender, and age diversity and among the nation's top 100 research universities and top 100 universities for social mobility and ethnic diversity (U.S. News & World Report, 2020 College Rankings). UNT is among a very few universities to be a Research 1 University and also a Minority-Serving Institution (MSI) and a Hispanic-Serving Institution (HSI).

UNT has a highly diverse campus with a wide range of languages spoken in addition to English. We welcome candidates who have experience with HSI/MSIs and/or who speak Spanish, Vietnamese, American Sign Language, Chinese (Cantonese, Mandarin and other variations), Arabic, Tagalog, Farsi, French, or/and Yoruba.

Position Summary

The successful candidate will be expected to teach curriculum and instruction courses (offered at the UNT campus and other off-site locations and online); supervise undergraduate students in internships as needed; and provide service to the Department, College, University, community constituencies, and professional organizations. Summer teaching is contingent on student demand and funding.

Minimum Qualifications

- (1) Earned master's degree in curriculum and instruction (or a closely related field) with emphasis in bilingual education; literacy education; social studies, math, and/or science education
- (2) Experience in EC-6 education and/or educational systems that serve Communities of Color like those found in Texas
- (3) Experience teaching at the college level.

Preferred Qualifications

- (1) Earned doctorate degree in curriculum and instruction (or a closely related field) with emphasis in bilingual education; literacy education; social studies, math, and/or science education
- (2) Bilingual in Spanish/English; (3) Scholarly focus on topics of contemporary urgency
- (4) Evidence of service.
