collaborative and collegial environment was built on principles of inclusion and belonging. We seek a leader who embodies these values. Ideal candidates will demonstrate a successful commitment and be eager to cultivate a student-centered culture of practice, promoting a sense of collegiality and ambition amongst faculty, staff, and students. Our future Associate Dean for Teacher Education will utilize their leadership experience and vision to continue to introduce and innovate our teacher preparation programs to ensure that students are prepared to address contemporary social, political, economic, and environmental challenges that impact public education.

Successful candidates will bring interest, experience, and skills to advance and expand current community-centered teacher education initiatives. Our nationally recognized teacher residency program, founded on principles of equity, inclusivity, and collaborative professionalism, is a standard bearer of our teacher education programming. We offer a comprehensive number of degrees and pathways that lead to NYS certifications including masters (2 years), combined bachelors-masters degree \(3+2\), and teacher residency programs (16 mos.). All pathways are accredited through the Association for Advancing Quality in Educator Preparation (AAQEP).

Responsibilities include:

- Administrative leadership in areas of curriculum development, quality assurance and continuous improvement, staff development and performance appraisals, budget and resource allocation, and other areas for operational excellence.
- Establish, monitor, evaluate, and modify processes, procedures, and/or standards, ensuring alignment of teacher education programs with GSE's mission, values, goals, and objectives, as well as all local, state, and federal laws and regulations. Monitor programs to ensure compliance with applicable accrediting bodies.
- Convene and facilitate various stakeholder groups, including community advisory boards.
- Lead grant writing efforts including reapplication for teacher residency grants.
- Promote and facilitate research opportunities for interested faculty and graduate students.

Appointments to begin in the Fall of 2025.

For full consideration, please submit your materials by October, 11, 2024. The position will remain open until filled.
