Job Description

Job Summary

The Director of DCEPS Strategic Partnerships is responsible for providing leadership in developing and sustaining partnerships to support the college's research and training efforts across both the professional studies and education programs. This position will help centralize efforts to identify, amplify, and sustain partnership initiatives throughout our partner schools, school divisions, industry, and community partners. This includes, but is not limited to, oversight of paid teacher pathways, including residencies, apprenticeships, Lab School teacher development initiatives, and other innovative approaches. This includes grant seeking and management, program administration, and stewardship of partnerships. The Director will collaborate with faculty and other partners to develop and maintain high-quality partnerships that advance the mission of the college.
